Thank you for attending last week’s Parent information sessions

I would like to take the opportunity to say thank you to the parents and carers who took the opportunity of meeting with their child’s teachers. Over 75% of our families were able to attend. That is terrific that so many families took the opportunity to engage with the school. Thank you also to the teachers for preparing for the evening and providing you with important information. If you would like to provide feedback, positive or constructive criticism in how we can improve the Parent Information Sessions for 2016, please email the school on email: castlehill-p.school@det.nsw.edu.au – attention Ms Lockrey – Parent Information Feedback. This will assist us in our ongoing improvement of communicating with families.

CLEAN UP AUSTRALIA

Clean up Australia Day is on Sunday March 1. Our school will be participating in the clean up of our school this Friday February 27, 2015. Students are encouraged to bring a pair of gloves to help clean up our school on this day.

Volunteer Teacher required for SRE – Buddhism

If you are a parent/community member who would like to volunteer to be trained as an SRE teacher in Buddhism at Castle Hill PS (by Buddhist Council of NSW), please get in touch with Pri via email: ayubowan@dodo.com.au

The program at CHPS is rather relaxed and suits any child who may like to be introduced to the teachings of Buddha. It is without a prayer & worship aspect. The aim of the program is to foster compassion, empathy and wisdom in young children and to build an open mind that accepts the diversity of the world – respecting different belief systems and ways of life. We do this by sharing Buddhist stories and applying these to our daily lives. We also try to build resilience to the emotional stressors that are part and parcel of daily life. For example, the students practise mediation for a minute or two and are encouraged to apply the technique by focusing on breathing for a few seconds if anyone upsets them. Our aim is to avoid tantrums and help children to find peace within themselves.

The volunteer teacher will not need an in-depth knowledge of Buddhism, but needs to be familiar with fundamental teachings and values – or willing to learn and practise a Buddhist way of life. The sessions are Wednesday from 9.30 to 10.00 am. You will get a lot of help from the experienced teacher until you are comfortable in your role – both teachers will be sharing the same classroom. The new teacher can start with K-Y1 students for an easier start. We have students with family backgrounds in both Mahayana and Theravada forms of Buddhism and also from non-Buddhist families.

PARENTING IDEAS – Michael Grose

Have a look at the website - www.parentingideas.com.au This week’s topic

It’s not ok to be away... nor to be late to school.

When kids miss school, not only is their academic progress impeded, forcing them to catch up on missed work (which some never do), they often miss important interactions with their peers which can compound issues of social isolation and low self-esteem.

One of the most important things you can do to ensure your child has a bright future is to make sure he or she goes to school every day—and gets there on time.

It sounds simple, but it’s true. The correlation between school attendance and children’s achievement levels is well-established. The more time kids spend at school, the more likely they are to experience school success.

Conversely, according to a report from the Victorian Auditor General, students who are regularly absent from school are at the greatest risk of dropping out of school early, and of experiencing long-term unemployment.

When kids miss school, not only is their academic progress impeded, forcing them to catch up on missed work (which some never do), they often miss important interactions with their peers which can compound issues of social isolation and low self-esteem. Also, many teachers tell me, it’s often the kids who can least afford to take time off school who are most likely to be serial absenteeists.

Of course, most people know this intuitively, yet school absenteeism is a huge problem in Australian schools—and much of it is parent-condoned.
It’s hard to get an accurate picture across the country but it would appear that Australian students miss an average of between 12 and 15 days per school year, with parent-condoned absenteeism highest among young primary-aged children. That adds up to a year’s lost schooling over the school-life of a child. In today’s highly competitive world, this rate of absenteeism is alarming, putting our kids at a distinct disadvantage.

That’s not a reason to be away!

It’s now commonplace for children to stay away from school for reasons that would have been unheard of just twenty years ago. These include staying away to celebrate their own or a sibling’s birthday; being absent because they stayed up too late watching television; going shopping for clothes; an extended long weekend; and kids not wanting to take part in a sports day or special school event. This type of absenteeism sends a strong message to kids that parents don’t really value learning or their children’s school experiences. Australian kids only spend 15% of their total time at school. They spend more time asleep than they do at school. So we need to maximise every day to get full value. That means turning up to school every day, on time.

Being late is not okay either

Missing a few minutes each day may not seem like a big deal but your child may be missing more than you realise if he or she is continually late. Current research shows that mornings for most children are the most productive time of the day, with 10.00am the peak period for productivity. When children arrive late and take time to settle as they inevitably do, valuable learning time is lost.

It takes strong parenting ...

As a parent myself I know how persuasive children of all ages can be when it comes to taking a day off school. It takes a strong will to resist the persistent pressure that kids can bring to bear, particularly if they play the guilt card with comments such as “It’s not fair that I have to go school today because Aunty is coming to visit!” Nice try. But the answer should be “No!”.

As parents we need to make a commitment that our kids make the most of their precious time at school. That means that we send them to school every day, on time and ready to make the most of the school day. Of course, there will be times, such as illness or genuinely extenuating family circumstances, when kids should be away. But these need to be a rarity rather than the norm. It’s reassuring to know that you increase their chances of future success just by making sure they turn up to school every day. And of course regular school attendance also helps kids prepare for the workforce, where it will be expected that they turn up each day work-ready. The real world is unforgiving of those who stay away with NO EXCUSE.

Mrs Julianne Smith, Relieving Deputy Principal

- Canteen Committee

Bookclub

I am still looking for 1 or 2 volunteers (if 2 people want to work together) to take over from me this Term if possible. I have set up the current 2015 teacher list and will help with training but as it is a new method of ordering from Scholastic, you are very welcome to set up a system that works for you.

You would be responsible for packing the brochures into class folders ready for distribution. Scholastic also pack the completed orders so they will also need to be double checked and the cash orders need to be packed. The role is a lot easier now as parents can now order online for credit cards so we only enter in cash, cheques and library/school orders. You would also be responsible for ordering books for the 3/4 Reading Box and the Library using the reward points we earn through student orders.

If you are interested in learning more about the role, please contact me at katmullen@bigpond.com

Learn about the internet: understanding how young people use the internet and what they enjoy doing will help you to recognise any suspicious or inappropriate behaviour. It will also help you to talk with your child about their online activities if they think you understand the online environment. This will include parental advice on Snapchat, Instagram, KiK and ask.fm

Parental controls are useful when young children have access to mobile phones or tablets. They allow you to restrict what content can be accessed on these devices. Placing parental controls on devices can ensure that your children are only able to access age-appropriate material.
